

This line chart provides an easy method for converting units of volume flow. Simply draw a line perpendicular to the scalelines through a known value of flow and read the equivalent on any of the other scales.